SCHETTLER IN FEDERAL COURT

Bankruptcy Petition Is Filed.

Creditors Ask That Assets Be Divided Among Them.

Hope to Bring in Property Not Listed -District Court Case to Be Enjoined.

Bankruptey proceedings in behalf of more than one hundred creditors of B. M. attler were filed yesterday in the Federal court by Mrs. Amelia Dale, Hyrum Smith and Jacob Rufi, the law firm of Stowart & Stewart representing the petitloners. The petition of yesterday be followed by several more within the next few days, each of which will ask that Mr. Schettler be adjudged an in voluntary bankrupt, and that the creditors named in the petition be allowed Enjoin District Court Suit. Enjoin District Court Suit.

The filing of the petition in bankruptcy will probably cause an order to be issued by the Federal court enjoining further action in the suit now pending against Schettler in the District court brought by the receiver in behalf of the creditors. This suit involves the Brigham street property and two other pieces of real estate which Schettler claims he deceded to his wives twenty years ago, but deeds to which were not filed until eighteen months ago. If the Federal court does not voluntarily issue the restraining order, Stewart & Stewart, in behalf of their clients, will petition the court to do so.

Last Day to File Petition.

Last Day to File Petition.

This is the last day on which the creditors would have an opportunity to file the petition in involuntary bank-ruptcy, as the court allows four months from the date on which a receiver is named for creditors to take such action. At the last meeting of the Schettler creditors a committee was named, with authority to employ counsel for the creditors. Stewart & Stewart were retained, and a member of the firm said yesterday that not a stone would be left unturned to secure for their clients their full share in whatever property Mr. Schettler may own, not only in Salt Lake City, but in the State. In this property is included the Brigham street property, now in litigation, and which, Stewart & Stewart will contend, should be included in the assets of Mr. Schettler.

United States Deputy Marshal H. S. Page served a copy of the pelition in hankruptcy and a subpoena upon Mr. Schettler last evening at his home.

Falls Two Floors in Federal Building

Dick Wright Steps Into Elevator Shaft and Narrowly Escapes Instant Death.

After falling headlong through the elevator shaft at the Federal building, from the fourth floor to the second, Dick Wright, a laborer, was rescued from certain death by the quick work of other employees at the building. The accident occurred about 19 o'clock yesterday morning. Wright had been engaged in clearing away some lumber and debris from the fourth floor, when, according to his statement, something slipped and he was piunged into the elevator shaft. Realizing his terrible danger, he tried to save himself by catching at the iron work of the third floor. His effort undoubtedly broke his fall, but resulted in great injury to him. Almost instantly he fell to the second floor, where he was successful in grasping the iron railing. Workingmen, hearing his cries for help, hurried to his relief, just in time to prevent his dropping to the bottom. He was lifted to the floor, where he fainted.

Dr. E. V. Silver was called. He found that Wright had three crushed ribs, a lacerated scalp, abrasions and contusions of both arms. He was taken to his home at once. Wright is a man about 45 years old and has a family living at 906 South First West street. the fourth floor to the second, Dick

PRIMARY DEMONSTRATION.

Little Tots Give an Exhibition of School "Work."

Quite an interesting demonstration was given in the city and county ballding yesterday afternoon by two classes of the primary grades of the schools. One class was from the Lowell and the other from the Oquirrh, Miss Mand Fotter being the teacher in charge. The sight of the little tots playing their games proved to be a great attraction for the employees of the city and county building. The performance took place in the corridor outside the office of Superintendent of Schools Christensen.

the office of Superintendent of Schools Christensen.

Stald Senators and flighty stenographers all gathered around and watched the game. For about half an hour the little ones played their games and sang their songe. The class from the Oquirrh went through a performance taken from "Hawatha."

All this demonstration was for the box.

All this demonstration was for the bencilt of several of the school teachers. It was also an illustration to many of the excellent work that is being done in Salt Lake City by Miss Rosalle Pollock, the primary supervisor. All the games, in which the children are joined by the teacher, have some meaning. They are really practical object lessons, each game impressing on the minds of the children some principle or lesson.

The system, which was first introduced in Salt Lake schools by Miss Pollock, is evidently having fine results. It is in use in all the best schools in the East. The children enter heartily into the spirit of the thing and the results show that they profit by the lessons. All this demonstration was for the ben Critchlow Talks Advertising.

A greater part of last evening's meeting was devoted to a paper on "Advertising by John S Critchlow. Mr. Critchlow characterizes the art of advertising as an exact science, and said that the man who had something to sell and lets the people know it in the simplest and most attractive way is the best advertiser. The expenditure of money in judicious advertising, Mr. Critchlow argued, will bring more returns than a like sum expended in any other way.

Mr. Critchlow pointed out the great advance made in advertising in the past fifty years and referred to some advertisements known the world over and beyond which in the mind of the student of advertising there can be nothing, for they tell the whole story of advertising in one word. Mr. Critchlow said that this did not come all at once, but came with years of unlimited means, and pointed out that any of his hearers might aspire to win at least local fame as advertises.

Use Plain English.

In making suggestions of how to write attractive advertisements, Mr. Critchlow said to use plain English, as few words as possible, make the "ad" neat and attractive, and, above all, give customers a square dead, or all the advertising a man might do would not make his business a success.

At the close of Mr. Critchlow's talk, H. A. Milan reported that in company with the secretary, J. A. Burt, he had visited the wholesale dealers of the city and they had pledged their hearty support in maintaining the retail prices.

A resolution was also adopted at last night's meeting authorizing the employment of Richard W. Young to assist in defending the case of the association against the Gold Trading Stamp company, which refused to pay a liceuse to the city.
